

Animal Handling

- Make sure animals are properly restrained when treating them
- Be careful with bulls, fresh cows or other aggressive animals
- Always plan escape routes and know where safe areas are in case of attack

- Cattle may become nervous or violent when scared - look for warning signs of attack
- Herd animals may get scared when cut off from the group
- Handle cows quietly and calmly - loud noises or sudden movements may startle them
- Don't move towards the animal from their blind spot or stand where you may be kicked
